

The Update

July – August 2019

Twelve Concepts

Concept Four

The Fourth Concept of World Service provides that “ At all responsible levels, that we ought to maintain a traditional Right of Participation, allowing a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must discharge ”. The A.A. Service Manual , combined with Twelve Concepts for World Service, by Bill W., In this Concept, AA provides that all groups within AA should be given a right to participate in the affairs of AA. This Concept provides not only that groups of alcoholics be permitted to participate, but also the staffs that include nonalcoholics should also be premitted the right to vote in proportion to the responsibility they discharge. This ensures that every skilled element to make informed decision has a right to participate and provides a voice for people with knowledge of how things operate day to day.

Concept Five

Concept 5 of the of the Concepts of World Service reads:” Throughout our world service structure, a traditional “Right of Appeal ” ought to prevail, thus assuring us that the majority opinion will be heard and that petitions for the redress of personal grievances will be carefully considered. Under this concept, all minorities are encouraged to file minority reports whenever they feel a majority to be in considerable error. Even when the minority may be partially or entirely in error, they perform a valuable service by compelling a thorough debate on important issues. They are our chief protection against uninformed, misinformed, hasty or angry majority.
